

White Hussars a Chautauqua Week Attraction

In addition to their band music, the White Hussars are to appear here on the Chautauqua's day as a choir. The afternoon and evening programs are full of the stirring enthusiasm of martial music, with just enough fun and clever pantomime introduced to suit the taste of Chautauqua "fans." The Hussars—thirteen in number—were organized several years ago by Ralph Dunbar, whose success as a producer of musical companies is well known. Under his direction the company has made frequent transcontinental tours. "In New York city one paper said, 'The Hussars are immaculately groomed, good looking young men who play well and sing well and will pass muster anywhere.'" From Philadelphia, "The Hussars made a splendid appearance and were encored time after time." From Chicago, "They played Sousa's music just as though Sousa were there to direct it." From Cincinnati: "They easily carried off the honors. Voices were good, the music was good, and in all respects the company is 'all to the good.'" From Louisville: "If you think you have heard band music hear the Hussars. They not only play good music, but sing as well. They are particularly satisfying and make a fine appearance."

BRIGHT PROSPECT FOR POULTRY RAISERS

Cold storage eggs will sell at not less than 60 cents per dozen next fall or winter. Be prepared to pay 80 or 90 cents, and maybe a dollar a dozen for strictly fresh eggs around Thanksgiving and Christmas. While a great many families have put down eggs this year that never thought of such a thing before, yet the number in cold storage is nearly 25 per cent less than it was a year ago.

The average price being paid for eggs to put in storage is 33 cents per dozen, compared with 18.1 cents per dozen May 1, 1916.

In 1915 eggs went into cold storage during April and May at 18 to 22 cents per dozen. Thus it will be seen that the commission buyers and cold storage men have paid close to 80 per cent more for the future "pickled stock" than was paid two years ago.

Canada is crying for her people to produce ten million dozen more eggs this fall and winter than they produced last spring. Canada must have that many more eggs and must have them without regard to cost, and it is certain to be up to the United States to furnish this year double the number of eggs and pounds of poultry to Canada that we furnished last year.

England and France need millions of dozens of fresh eggs, and they just have to have them. $1.00 to $1.50 is not stopping and will not stop the demand from those countries.

The British government has issued orders that for the time being, at least, no grain which can be used for human consumption is to be fed to horses, mules, swine, etc., except as rationed by the food commissioners, and they further "recommend" that no domestic fowls be kept except those which can be fed on table scraps, garden waste, etc.

This means our allies must depend upon the United States and Canada for eggs for their homes, and remember the countless thousands of sick and wounded soldiers who positively must have eggs.

Last year Canada exported to England over fourteen million dozen eggs, and imported over seven million dozen eggs from the United States, besides this country exported millions of eggs direct to England, and now we must supply the needs of France, Italy, Belgium and many neutral countries.

Do not worry about what the price of eggs and poultry will be. Do not worry about the cost of poultry feeds. Supply and demand will take care of these things in a neutral way, although it may take a little time and some inconvenience may be necessary in the meantime.

Sometime ago federal officials, on short notice, caused the managers of leading boards of trade to give indefinite vacations to about 5,000 grain broker clerks, clearly demonstrating that the country is in no mood to permit gambling speculation in the sale of foodstuffs.

Do not worry about prices but worry about methods and management, and how to save labor and produce more poultry and eggs. Study the best market and style of disposing of your product. Cull out the young market cockerels now which will only grow into lively, active roosters—a fighting machine, not a profit machine. His comb, spurs, his crow and high opinion of himself are without value when sold on the market as a cockerel. Caponize him, and he adds weight twice as quickly at a less food cost. Keep an eye on all such steps of management as will tend to increase the income without any increase in cost.

With cold storage eggs selling at 50 cents per dozen and higher, it is certain to mean the fresh laid article will bring from 25 to 50 per cent more. In some sections of the country they will be even much higher.

When commission men are putting down eggs at the high prices now prevailing one may rest assured that the price of the product this winter will be more than high enough to warrant it.

There is no reason for poultry raisers to feel blue over the present high cost of poultry food. Good judgment in feeding, a careful culling of the droppings and slacks among your layers and all those of inferior size and vitality and an effort to improve the quality of your flock, will mean profit for you in the future.

Poultry, both for meat and for breeding use, will be higher in price next season and in seasons to come than ever before. Prices never again will be as low as in the times past.

With rains heavy and general during the last of May and early June over all sections of the greatest wheat, corn, oats and alfalfa states, it would seem that a good yield per acre is assured. Late reports show that Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa will have the largest acreage of corn in the history of these states, besides, the two former states mentioned will have a much larger acreage of oats than usual. The Dakotas, Montana, Minnesota, Oklahoma and northern Texas can, from recent reports, be looked to for their usual large production of wheat, while Missouri, Illinois and other corn and grain producing states report their fields in splendid condition as a result of the soaking rains of the past two weeks. This is encouraging news to the poultry raisers. It seems to indicate that the necessary feed for poultry will be lower this fall and winter.

It is interesting to note that at the present time with cash wheat selling at or around $2.03 per bushel, that September wheat is now listed at $1.93 per bushel.

We look forward to the demand creating prices for poultry products sufficiently large as compared with grain prices as to insure a neat profit to the poultryman, if the growing stock and layers are handled properly. Thousands are taking up the raising of poultry, at least in a small way, this spring. This fall is certain to show many thousands more who will, for the first time, stock a portion of their backyards or vacant lots with fowls.

Poultry is about the only form of meat that can be raised and matured in less than a year.

With the work and publicity that has been going on in favor of pure bred poultry, we are sure to find a large per cent of the annual poultry converts taking up a good quality of stock to start with than was the case ten or even five years ago.

The fact remains, however, that one hundred pullets well raised, well housed and cared for will produce more eggs this winter than will 300 not properly handled as chicks and layers.

KEEP PIGS, BOYS, AND HELP COUNTRY

The farm herd of swine offers a splendid opportunity for farm boys to help their country. Too young to enlist in the Army or Navy, too small to stand up under the hard work of a farm hand, they can help to win the war by taking over responsibility for lighter work, and so relieve men for the harder work. By taking charge of the hogs on the farms boys will be helping to solve the farm-labor problem. They will be helping to produce a very important food for the men in the Army and Navy.

Boys taking charge of the farm herd should join a pig club. Pig-club members have already proved their ability as hog raisers. They can extend their work. A member of the pig club receives valuable instructions from trained and experienced leaders. A pig-club member publicly enlists as a junior "soldier of the commissary." Fathers will have more faith in their boys if they are pig-club members, and will be readier to make them partners and put them in charge of the farm herd. A pig-club boy means business. He keeps records and knows just what it costs to produce a pound of pork. Records help to correct mistakes. They make raising hogs a
